Welcome to the Ultimate Mixed Event

Oostende - Stad aan Zee - City on the Sea

Four hundred and five pairs are contesting the 7th European Bridge Mixed Championships which are being held in Ostend for the first time since 1992. That is less than the 456 pairs who competed in Bellaria in 2000, but then there were 171 Italian pairs against the 75 competing here. The six previous Championships have seen pairs from six different countries atop the rostrum – France, Poland, Germany, Austria, Sweden and Italy. Our hosts have 37 pairs in the lists – perhaps they will provide number seven?

PLAYING SCHEDULE

The evening session today starts at 20.15 hrs. and will end at approximately midnight.

Tomorrow, Sunday, March 17

10.30 3rd Qualification session

16.30 1st Final & Consolation session

Mixed Pairs

Three qualifying sessions will be played, after which the first 130 pairs proceed to the Finals, to be played over three sessions as well. The remaining pairs will play a three-session Consolation.

There will be a carryover from the qualifications, the final result of it counting as one session. (The formula given on page 23 of the conditions of contest is not correct: the figure "2" should be read as "3." This applies for both the Finals and the Consolation).

The Hamman Syndrome

Do you recall Bob Hamman's remark that 'the best play badly and the rest are awful?' Take a look at these three deals from the Vanderbilt Teams at the North American Championships currently being played in Houston, Texas.

If East has to rebid 3NT then this deal is no recommendation for the forcing notrump. East must have been worried that a bid of Three Clubs would have been passed, but with Six laydown and Seven playable this was a poor effort.

East led a diamond and West took the king with the ace. It looks obvious to switch to a trump but West played the queen of hearts, followed by the jack, the ace of clubs and a third heart. Declarer ruffed in dummy, cashed the queen of diamonds and played a diamond, ruffing as West discarding a club. After ruffing his last heart with the queen of spades declarer ruffed a diamond, cashed a top spade and exited with a club forcing a lead into the spade tenace for +110.

Rodwell knew his partner's shape but elected to play in notrumps. West led the queen of clubs and declarer won, crossed to dummy with the ace of diamonds and played the ten of spades, covered in turn by the jack, queen and king. West switched to the jack of hearts and declarer won in hand crossed to the queen of diamonds and played a spade to the eight. When West discarded declarer had only one chance, to exit with a low diamond, hoping East would have to win with the jack and be endplayed. No luck and the club return put the contract two down.

If declarer had run the six of spades he would have made eleven tricks. Three deals to illustrate that Hamman's Syndrome is alive and well.
