EDITORIAL

Greetings to everybody, and particularly to our young players for whom this publication is especially designed.

The EBL is very pleased that the moment has come to have a separate newsletter for the most valuable part of our membership: the youth.

We have gone a long way with Junior bridge in Europe. Our most recent achievement was last summer's spectacular introduction of the Schools Championship, which gives the opportunity for international distinction to the younger ones.

This year has already brought us EBL Junior Review, and we are looking forward to the opening of our Junior Pairs and Camp to the other WBF zones. The World Junior Pairs and Camp will take place this summer in Belgium with many non-European participants, especially from North America. Let's welcome them and share with them our wonderful experience.

EBL Junior Review

EBL Junior Review, published biannually, is the official medium of the European Bridge League for matters concerning young players.

EUROPEAN SCHOOLS CHAMPIONSHIP TAKES OFF!

French Bridge Federation President Jean-Claude Beineix receives the José Damiani Trophy for his country's victory in the 1st European Schools Teams Championship

The European Schools Teams Championship, the new official biennial competition for players up to 20 years old, was most successfully launched last July in Arnhem, the Netherlands.

No less than thirteen countries took part in the inaugural event which was won by FRANCE. NORWAY and ISRAEL won the other medals.

The Schools Championship is played simultaneously with the established European Junior Teams.

GREAT BRITAIN - DENMARK - POLAND WIN JUNIOR EUROPEAN MEDALS AND HEAD FOR BALI

16 years after their first triumph, GREAT BRITAIN won again the European Junior title at the 14th competition of the series. It was a fierce battle which was not decided until the very last round. DENMARK came a close second and POLAND followed.

These three countries will now represent Europe in the 5th World Junior Teams Championship, which is to be held in Bali, Indonesia, 8-17 July 1995.

All zones of the World Bridge Federation are invited to participate in the biennial World Junior Teams. The winner conquers the Ortiz-Patiño Trophy, symbol of world supremacy in Junior bridge.

Europe won the first World Juniors in 1987, thanks to the Netherlands, and Great Britain retained the title in 1989. In 1991 the trophy moved to the USA; it was brought back in 1993 by Germany, the reigning world junior champions.

Denmark's success at the Junior European was welcome news for everybody at home, including the officials who had to find the funds for sending the team to Bali. Ib Lundby, the energetic secretary of the Danish Federation, wasted no time.

He asked a number of top players to contribute a bridge article and Bridge à la Carte was ready at printing cost only. Sold at $10 per copy, it is expected to raise at least $20,000!

First Schools champions: L.Bouscarel, J.Geitner, D.Fonteneau, J.Rombaut, J.C.Quantin (npc),

FRANCE WINS FIRST EUROPEAN SCHOOLS TEAMS

THE NETHERLANDS and FRANCE, Europe's biggest Federations, have connected their names with a historic occasion: the inaugural European Schools Teams Championship - the former by staging it and the latter by winning it!

The Netherlands Bridge League produced an impeccable organization of the new event, last July, at Papendal, a magnificent sports center near the city of Arnhem.

The Schools Championship took the form of a separate series for players up to 20 years old, held in conjunction with the long-established European Junior Championship. The two series form the biennial European Youth Teams Championships.

It is fitting that France, a country with an extensive school bridge programme, should win the first European event of this kind. They did so in great style, finishing well ahead of the field.

The other two medals went to Norway and Israel - two countries well known for the effort they are putting into young people's bridge. Poland who ended fourth, belongs to the same family; however, the pleasant surprise came from Belarus: in their first appearance, they entered the Schools series only and finished a very creditable fifth!

With 13 countries taking part, the 1st European Schools Teams Championship was a great success in every respect; undoubtedly, it went a long way into establishing the event as a permanent competition of the European Calendar.

GREAT BRITAIN CAPTURES EUROPEAN JUNIOR TITLE

After a well fought tournament, full of excitement and breath-taking ups and downs, Great Britain, Denmark and Poland emerged as the medal winners of the 14th European Junior Teams Championship, held in Arnhem, the Netherlands, 15-24 July 1994. These countries will now try to retain the world title for Europe by representing Zone 1 in the 5th World Junior Teams Championship, which is to take place in Bali, Indonesia, this summer.

Runners up DENMARK: M.Bruun, J.Dall, N.Kampmann, L.L.Madsen, M.Madsen, J.Røn, L.Høffner (npc), L.W.Petersen (coach)

The road to the top and the effort to stay there were not easy, since many of the 22 participating countries had prepared well for a European medal.

Almost all of the usual favourites negotiated a good ranking at one moment or another, but when the smoke cleared it appeared that Denmark and Great Britain were particularly strong this year. Norway, a traditionally dangerous team, played a leading role, together with Israel; Poland, Sweden, Italy and France stayed in the medal whereabouts.

A few rounds before the end, Norway suffered an unexpected blitz from Austria, while France and Italy faded away. Poland and Denmark, on the other hand, made strong advances towards the top.

The situation cleared soon. When Poland lost to France and Great Britain, Denmark remained alone at the top and appeared to be the certain winner, leading by 11 VPs with one round to go.

However, it was not over yet. In the last round, the unlikely happened: Denmark was slaughtered by Norway and the British scored heavily against France. So, Denmark ended up second, while Great Britain won the title for the first time since 1978.

1st WORLD JUNIOR
University of Ghent, Ghent, Belgium

Ghent University offers single room full-board accommodation to all participants. Each room has cold and warm running water; there are shared shower/baths and toilets on every floor. The University campus provides some sports and recreational facilities, on site or nearby. There is ample space for bridge play, which will be exclusively available, 24 hours.

Ghent is a very beautiful city. It lies some 60km north-west of Brussels, on the main highway to the coast. It is easily accessible by car or train; by direct coach line, Brussels airport is less than an hour away.

During two decades, European Junior Camps - and, more recently, the European Junior Pairs Championships - have helped thousands of young players to integrate into the game and discover its fascination in their own environment.

Now, Europe is actively supporting the development of Junior Bridge worldwide by opening its events to young people from all over the world.

As from 1995, the European Junior Pairs and Camp will be incorporated into the World Junior Pairs Championship and World Junior Camp.

Thus expanded, these popular events will provide more opportunities to more young people - and to bridge!

The 1st World Junior Bridge Camp will start with the opening ceremony, Monday 14 August, and end with special festivities Tuesday 22 August. Participants will depart Wednesday morning).

The Camp's daily program includes lectures on various bridge subjects. Certain hours are devoted to physical sports. In the numerous bridge tournaments, the mixing-up of nationalities is systematically encouraged. It is intended to organize an outing to nearby places of interest. Naturally, participants will have plenty of free time to spend as they wish within the framework of the Camp.

All WBF member countries are welcome to the Camp, but the number of participants will not exceed 250. There is a temporary limit of 20 participants per European NCBO which may be increased if there are still free places after the deadline of 30 April 1995.

Camp participants should, in general, be 17-23 old, but, due to the nature of the Camps, their level of play should not be a consideration.
